Teaching Effectiveness - Flinders University

Teaching effectiveness is important because effective teaching helps student learning. It has become even more important as the emphasis on quality in higher education has increased. Effective teaching does not occur by chance. Effective teachers have become good at what they do because they evaluate their practice. James (n/d) suggests that educational evaluation is a professional need concerted direct teaching and correction by the teacher before they master the learning required. Effective teachers help students learn on their own as well as with and from others. They know that students learn best if they are provided with opportunities to learn not only from the teacher but also from other students and from sources outside the school that are now more readily
